Penalties for Driving without Auto Insurance by State as of January 2014

Methodology:

All of the penalties listed are for driving without the minimum mandatory liability insurance required by a state or for a similar violation where driving without insurance is not specifically a violation. There are other related but distinct violations, penalties and issues that were not examined, including:

- Not having proof of insurance during a traffic stop.
- Operating but not owning a vehicle without the required liability insurance.
- The listed penalties are often applicable only after a conviction.
- Penalties if an uninsured driver was in an accident—those penalties are often more severe.
- Fraudulent use of an insurance card.
- Whether or how many points are placed on a license for a violation of minimal insurance laws—Missouri and Montana, for instance, both assess points.
- Where penalties were mitigated by getting insurance immediately.
- The above analysis stops at the penalty for driving without insurance and does not list other penalties that might be imposed for violations related to driving without insurance. In North Dakota, for instance, a second or subsequent offense means that a violator has to turn their plates in. If the violator did not turn in their plates it is a Class B Misdemeanor. The punishment for not turning the plates in is not listed.
- Where reinstatement fees were listed as part of the penalty statute they are noted. But there may be additional fees not covered by this chart.
